Meta Centre opens new Morrish Road location during 25th anniversary

Toronto, May 24, 2011 – Twenty-five years ago the Meta Centre was founded to provide much-needed help and supports to individuals with special needs and their families. On June 1st, the organization will continue to meet its commitments to people with special needs by opening its sixth day program location at the new Scarborough Morrish Road site.

“This is a historic time at our agency,” says Meta Centre Executive Director, Steven Harrison. “With the generous assistance of the Morrish family, we continue to embrace the social inclusion of people with special needs in the Morrish Road community.”

The doors open to the community on Wednesday June 1st, 2011 with the official ribbon-cutting and open house from 2 pm – 7 pm.

About Meta Centre

The Meta Centre was founded in 1986 and has since grown to provide socially inclusive community services for children, youths, and adults with special needs. These include day programs, supported independent living, social work services, and residences located in Toronto and the Greater Toronto Area.
